28

Fiduciary Duties of Staff and Consultants

- Boards are empowered to retain staff and outside consultants as needed
- Boards may rely on staff, officers, committees or outside consultants if directors “reasonably believe” the person is reliable and competent in that area
- Higher standard for legal counsel, public accountants and others retained for their skills or expertise?

29

Director and Staff Involvement

- “Federal credit union's staff providing services to the board of directors or any committee of the board under this regulation may be required to report directly to the board or such committee as appropriate.”
 - There is no mention of director in this paragraph
 - There is discussion of the board's right to require staff to report to the board or committee of the board, as appropriate
 - A director, by himself or herself, has little or no power. It is the board and their vote that matters.

30

NCUA Discussion

- "Some commenters object to any provision requiring federal credit union employees (staff) to report directly to the board of directors or committees of the board, stating this would undermine management's authority over the employees of the credit union."
- "The NCUA Board disagrees."
- "While the board of directors should not attempt to bypass the CEO in giving direction to management and employees, the board is free to ask any manager, employee, or independent contractor to provide the board and its committees information directly and not through the filter of the CEO."

31

Summary

- Federal credit union's board has the right to gain direct access to information from credit union employees
- NCUA notes that boards should not bypass the CEO to direct or manage the credit union's employees
